Behind the Scenes of...

The lights are up, the stage is set, and beautiful voices fill the Perry Park Center. This year Saxony’s Drama Club put on another outstanding show, performing Disney’s The Little Mermaid. However, before any show can go on, there are many things that need to happen behind the scenes. Here is a rundown of what goes on to make our musicals spectacular.

Auditions – To put on any show, actors must first be chosen. Back in December, director Tammy Petzoldt faced the always-tough job of picking the cast. The two leads were given to Tab Petzoldt and Micah Mirly. Other prominent characters were Cody Griggs as Sebastian, Matthew Babcock as King Triton and Emma Robison as Flounder.

Practices – This one is a given: practice does make perfect, after all. On average, the actors practiced three or four times a week from the end of February up until two weeks before the show. After that, they practice every day. During these practices they did everything from memorizing lines, perfecting song harmonies and learning dance numbers. When learning the songs, not only do actors have to know the words, but they also have to know what notes to sing. This is no easy task.

Scenery – After the actors, perhaps the next most important thing is the set. This gives the actors colorful backgrounds to highlight their performances. Unlike years past, most of the scenery this year was made up of rented backdrops. This means that many scenes did not have to be painted by hand, although some were. Under the watch of the always-spectacular Mrs. Wichern, the paint crew touched up scenery used in past shows and painted an all new kitchen scene.

Props – Once the actors have their lines down and the scenes are painted, a bit more is still needed to add life to the show. The props give actors something to hold or do while they are on stage. This way they aren’t just standing there reciting what they have memorized. That wouldn’t be very entertaining to watch. Props can be challenging to make, though. Once the director decides what she wants in the scene, it is up to the stage crew to make it. One notable prop that had to be made was a bust of Prince Eric. There were several challenges to making this. The first obstacle was that the bust needed to actually look like Micah. The second was the fact that it had to break on stage yet be reused for the following performances. Luckily, the talented Stage Manager, Sofia Voss, found a way to make it work.

Pit practice – The pit is a literal necessity to have a musical. Led by music director Mr. Wunderlich, the pit provides all of the music to which the actors sing along. They have practices, but a lot of the music still has to be perfected on the musicians’ own time.

Costumes – To make the audience believe the actors are the characters they are portraying, they need the right costume. On numerous weekends a team of parents and younger siblings came together and had sewing days to make the costumes.

There are many other things that go into putting on a good show: lights, curtains, microphones and much more. There are just so many tiny details needed to make the show perfect.

If any Crusaders are interested in joining Drama Club, they are always welcome, whether they actually want to act or work behind the scenes. Make sure to sign up next year and get welcomed into a new family!
The “bows” music began as one by one the cast of Saxony’s The Little Mermaid took his/her turn on stage, bowing to a roaring audience. As the bows came to an end, senior Tabitha Petzoldt, Ariel, and junior Micah Mirly, Prince Eric, came running out to greet the crowd. Upon reaching center stage, they performed an intricate jump, a move featured in an earlier dance scene. The audience rose to a standing ovation, the cheers echoing loudly through the Perry Park Center auditorium, marking a fantastic end to a fantastic show.

Coming off the success of Saxony’s past Disney musical Beauty and the Beast, The Little Mermaid had very high standards to surpass. Rehearsals began in late February, and the cast put in countless, intensive hours to make this show the best it could be. The show featured twelve seniors, including members of the cast, crew and orchestra pit. These seniors are the following: Nate Hartmann, pit; Analinda Hyatt, pit; Jade Samanta, pit; Londyn Lorenz, cast; Tyler Mockler, cast; Tabitha Petzoldt, cast; Emma Robison, cast; Megan Schmitz, cast; Caitlyn Tinsley, cast; Sofia Voss, crew; Ryan Babcock, crew; and Jordan Wybert, crew. With such a large and vital group, they are sure to be missed next year!

The plot of The Little Mermaid musical is classic Disney, but differs somewhat from the film version. The musical focuses on Ariel (Tabitha Petzoldt), a mermaid with a heart that belongs to the “world above,” or the shore. Her father, King Triton (Matthew Babcock), is wary of humans as he fears they killed his wife. As Ariel tries to find her place, aided by her best friend Flounder (Emma Robison) and seagull friend Scuttle (Londyn Lorenz/Deanna Rubach), she meets and saves the daring Prince Eric (Micah Mirly). Desperate to be with Eric, Ariel barters away her voice for legs, a trade enacted by her evil Aunt Ursula (Katie Benkendorf.) The trade goes awry when Ariel has only three days to convince Eric to fall in love with her; otherwise, Ariel becomes Ursula’s prisoner forever. The emotionally charged plot was brought to life by the entirety of the multi-talented cast and crew, led by director Tammy Petzoldt, and the incredibly talented orchestra, led by Mr. Tyson Wunderlich!

Congratulations to every person who played a part in the success that was Saxony’s The Little Mermaid.
School Bowl: All the Buzz

Saxony’s Scholar Bowl team, valiantly led by team captain Jade Samanta, put up an amazing fight at the District competition held at Notre Dame High School on April 14. Unfortunately, they were not able to bring home a win this year. The Crusaders made it to the afternoon rounds having beaten Notre Dame and several other schools in the morning. In the afternoon, they beat Twin Rivers and went to their final match against Notre Dame. The two teams were tied at the second to last question when, unfortunately, Notre Dame pulled out the win. That’s okay, though. Everyone on the team has accepted the loss, and they are now using it as a stepping stone to make the team even stronger for next year.

Coach Cleair had this to say about the season on a whole: “It has been an honor to work with the Scholar Bowl team again this year; it is hard to be pessimistic about the future when you experience the wisdom and compassion that I get to enjoy while working with Saxony Scholar Bowl.”

Senior Londyn Lorenz had this to say about their District match. “My favorite team to play against in Scholar Bowl is Notre Dame. I like them not only because both of our teams are equally matched but, they have a funny warm-up exercise routine that they let us watch. So, if there is one place that we had to end our season, I’m glad it was against Notre Dame.”

The whole team played very well given the fact that many of their players were in the Drama musical, which was the same day. We are very proud of our Scholar Bowl team, and we wish them luck on their next adventures.

Can You Solve This Murder Mystery?

An old man lives alone in a house. Because of his age, he is not able to move comfortably and hence, most of the things he needs are delivered to his house.

On Friday, while delivering the mail, the postman smells something suspicious from the house. He looks inside through the key hole and sees the blood-covered body of the old man. The police arrive at the scene and find two bottles of warm milk, the Tuesday newspaper, some unopened letters, and some gifts. The police immediately find and arrest the murderer. Who killed the old man?

Band Together

This has been a great year for music at Saxony Lutheran High School. With several all-district choir participants and over fifteen state-level entries, our musicians have enjoyed their well-deserved success and recognition. To top it all off, this year also marked the Saxony band’s biennial tradition of taking a tour; this year, to Chicago.

The group kicked off the trip on Friday, April 6, by playing hymns for Saxony’s morning chapel. As soon as they finished, these musically inclined students loaded a trailer (driven by Pastor Kobak) with all sorts of instruments, boarded the bus, and departed for Springfield, Illinois.

The band members then took a solemn educational venture to the famed Lincoln Museum. After that historical adventure, they headed straight for Concordia Village, a local Lutheran nursing home, and played several tunes for the residents.

The group also spent a day on the Concordia University - Chicago campus to attend a master class with the Concordia Wind Symphony director, Rich Fisher. Dr. Fisher not only helped the band perfect their repertoire, but also gave inspirational and motivational advice regarding music, hardships, and life itself.

While in the area, the band also played in several churches and even toured downtown Chicago, seeing monuments and sites such as the Millennium Bean, Willis Tower, and Navy Pier. According to Tyson Wunderlich, the Saxony band director, the tour was “simply an expression of our love of music and our love of God.” The band was proud to change lives by sharing the Word of Christ through music.

Braving the Storms

If one were to ask any member of the Saxony golf team to describe the season so far, that person most likely would tell more about the outdoor conditions than his/her actual golf game. Nearly every match and tournament has experienced some kind of adverse weather, whether it be freezing temperatures or waves of wind and rain. Nevertheless, the team members have trudged through the thick and thin and have remained consistent in their pursuit of bettering their skills and growing as players.

One of the biggest successes of the season has been the improving talent of the influx of new players, many of whom had little to no golf experience prior to this season. Newcomers Daniel Doty, Matthew Moore and Abby Ruehling have all established themselves as members of the varsity roster. All of the members of the team have reached new highs and continue to set new goals for themselves.

Make sure to keep up with the Saxony golf team as they take part in the District Tournament this Monday, April 30, and, hopefully, as they continue on to more post-season play!
Through cold weather, rain-outs, last minute make-up games, and injuries, the Crusader’s baseball team has prevailed. According to senior co-captain Andrew Hartmann, the team has been successful with a balanced attack. “Everybody is doing their part; there’s not really just one stand-out player,” he said. Andrew and the team believe the team’s strength lies in its hitting and pitching ability. “It’s fun to win a lot of games on our home field, even though the weather has been crazy.”

After losing 1-0 this past weekend to talented district opponent Arcadia Valley, the Crusaders’ record has fallen to 11-3.

Despite the loss, they have played very well all year, including a huge 10-1 win over Oran—whom Saxomy had not beaten since the 2009 season.

The Crusaders’ district is tough this season. They are 1-3 so far in contests against district opponents, but two of the losses came early in the year. Andrew believes the team has improved a lot since then. So, come out and enjoy some spring baseball as the Crusaders close in on districts.

Sweet Swings of Spring

It may be the wet season of April, but the weather certainly hasn't rained on the parade of the Lady Crusader soccer team! With a current regular season record of 7-2, these girls are dominating the field. In fact, their only losses were against Jackson and Notre Dame—very skillful opponents, to say the least. Jackson is a Class 4 school, and Saxony is a Class 1 school, yet the Crusaders challenged the Indians with experience and finesse. Notre Dame is a Class 2 school with many talented players; nonetheless, Saxony controlled the entire first half. Unfortunately, the Crusaders lost their hold on the win during the second half, with the final score 2-1.

These two losses, though, will not deter the girls from their ultimate goal: winning the State Championship. To attain this title, the soccer team has to defeat its long-time rival, St. Vincent. Nonetheless, with all their conditioning, skill work, and strategy, the Saxony girls are absolutely capable of once again grabbing the first place trophy.

We wish the Lady Crusader soccer team good luck on the rest of their season and their campaign for the State Championship!
Racing to the Top

The teams may be somewhat small this year, but the boys and girls track and field teams have still come on strong this season. They’re in one of the toughest districts in the state for Class 2; however, they’ve managed to pull off numerous individual event medals as well as medals in relays. The girls overall team has even won the Eva Henshaw Invitational. Coach Wieser said, “The team as a whole has out-performed last year’s team, and we’re gonna burn some rubber in May.”

The boys track and field team is highlighted by junior standout Chris Palmer. Chris is an exciting runner, but he has garnered the most success throwing the javelin. After nearly hitting a car in the parking lot at the Chaffee Open with ease, Chris is ranked 4th in the state among javelin throwers in Class 2, with an astounding distance of 153’. The top throw this year is 172’, but Coach Max Wieser believes Chris can throw even further—even hinting at competing for State gold—with more work throwing.

In the girls’ victory at the Eva Henshaw Invitational, the 4x800m team placed first, and Clara Yokley took first place in javelin. Bri Jenkins is only a couple seconds off the state’s best 400m dash time with a 1:02, and the 4x4 team is ranked 6th in the state, with a time of 4:26. There has been a lot of success across the board on the girls’ side, and they look to make a deep run in State.

A Season of Strikes

With more popular spring sports, such as golf, soccer and track in session, it is easy to overlook indoor activities. A relatively new athletic activity that also deserves our due attention is our Saxony bowling team. This year was the program’s third year of existence, and what a fortuitous year it was! Twenty bowlers, total, split into four teams (A, B, C and D), were able to compete in six major competitive events against Jackson and Eagle Ridge, at Cape Girardeau’s West Park Lanes.

This year’s team has been relatively successful, with several A team members averaging impressive scores of 185 and above. Sunday, April 22, at 1:00 marked the beginning of the end, however, or the team’s season. Our individual teams bowled for approximately five hours, total. The team drew its confidence and hope from the fact that its season scores were very similar to those of its rival, Jackson High School. This meant that there was potential to advance to the State level of bowling. Unfortunately, our team did not advance, making April 22 the team’s last competition. Jackson’s A team, instead, took the victory, allowing them the opportunity to send their top eight players to the State competition in St. Joseph, Missouri.

Although this was not the outcome the Saxony team desired, we are still proud of their accomplishments. As Coach Drury said: “While we weren’t able to go to State, I am fortunate to have the opportunity to witness young bowlers improve and grow in the sport, and that’s what matters.”
Once upon a time, at the Elks Lodge in the city of Cape Girardeau, a ball was held for all the fair people of the junior and senior classes of Saxony. This ball was not just any ordinary high school affair, it was the one everyone had been greatly anticipating for months. For some in attendance, this was their final dance with all their friends at Saxony, while for others it was their first prom to experience. Waiting for the guests’ arrival, the staff made sure everything was perfect for a magical night. The ballroom was ready with fairy lights glistening above and an enchanted carriage welcoming everyone at the entrance of the great ballroom. When the clock struck eight, a hush flew over the ballroom, as the king and queen were to be crowned. First, the court was introduced: Tabitha Petzoldt and Wil Walker, Rachel Wichern and Tyler Fitzgerald, Caitlyn Tinsley and Andrew Hartmann, and Maci Smith and Isaac Scheper. The fairest of all maidens, Miss Maci Smith, was called to accept the crown, with white roses awaiting her arms. The noblest of all the men in the land, Sir Tyler Fitzgerald, was named the king for all to see. The crowd cheered now, knowing their queen and king were rightfully crowned. The music began playing once again and all the guests went back to dancing, living out their amazing fairytale.

The End

Thanks go out to the junior class sponsors, Mr. Wieser, Mr. Wunderlich, Mrs. Etzold, Ms. Hinkebein and Mrs. Lorenz; junior class president Micah Mirly and vice-president Sydney Russo; the junior class; and various junior parents. It was a night to remember!
This month’s freshman spotlight is the one and only Abby Ruehling. Abby grew up in the small town of Altenburg, where she attended United in Christ grade school. She attends church with her parents and older brother Zach (’17) at Trinity Altenburg Church. At Saxony, she is an active member of both the FFA and the golf team. I was lucky enough to sit down and ask Abby some questions, so keep reading to learn more.

Q: Who is your favorite teacher and why?
A: Mr. Z because he is funny and always makes me laugh.

Q: What is your favorite TV show?
A: The Voice

Q: What has been the best part of the school year so far?
A: Golf season!

Q: How would you describe yourself in three words?
A: Short, witty and determined.

Q: What are some advantages and disadvantages of being short?
A: I’m good at hide and seek, but no one takes me seriously.

Q: Shout-outs?
A: Lydia Hunt, Lindsay Baker and Abbi Thomason.

Be sure to take the time to introduce yourself to this one of a kind Crusader!

It’s Ty Tyme

What is it about Ty Miller that makes all the ladies blush and the guys so jealous? Is it his luscious hair? The fact that he is a mean, lean bowling machine? Whatever it may be, Ty is a chill guy and is pretty neat once you get to know him. He lives in Cape Girardeau with his parents and older brother, Paiton, where he attends St. Andrew Lutheran Church. So, beyond the good looks and suave style, Ty has a lot of personality and really showed it in this interview!

Q: What activities are you involved in here at school?
A: I play soccer, basketball, and I am on the bowling team.

Q: Do you have a secret talent?
A: I’m a pretty good bowler!

Q: Who is the better-looking brother: You or Pdo?
A: By far me . . . just ask the girls, they will tell you.

Q: Do you like your long hair?
A: Yeah, short hair just doesn’t look good on me.

Q: What is the worst thing you did as a kid?
A: Went to a Cubs baseball game. Go Cards!

Q: If you could change one thing about yourself, what would it be?
A: My height. I wish I were a little taller.

Q: Who is your favorite teacher and why?
A: Mrs. Wichern because she is nice and helps make our small group the best!

Q: Do you have a pet peeve?
A: LanSchool and slow drivers!

I think it is up to our readers to decide if we could ever forgive Ty for going to a Cubs game, but besides that little “blip,” he sounds pretty likeable! If you see this smooth sophomore in the halls, make sure to stop and say “Hi!” And remember, ladies, try not to go too crazy over this Crusader heartthrob—and boys, try not to be too intimidated.
Etienne Soto lives in Cape Girardeau with her mom, dad and younger sisters, Skyler and Cammy. Along with her family, she has three cats, Fifi, Oshie and Prim living with her. Etty attends St. Andrew Church and graduated from Trinity Lutheran school. During this spring sports season, Etty is involved with soccer, Spanish Club, Beta Club and National Honor Society. She was one of the founding members on the tennis team during the fall sports season.

Q: What's it like to have your sister at Saxony this year?
A: It's great. She's great. Everything's great.
Q: What are your plans for the future?
A: You know, I wish I could tell you.
Q: What's your favorite after-school snack?
A: RX protein bars.
Q: Any fun summer plans?
A: I'm going to England, Italy, Switzerland and France with my family.
Q: Are you ready to be a senior next year?
A: Yes and no.
Q: What's your best advice for students at Saxony?
A: Back up your tablets!
Q: Are you excited to have your younger sister Cammy coming to Saxony next year?
A: Yeah... just be ready.
Q: What do you do on weekends?
A: Pray that it lasts longer.

Etty is very involved here at Saxony and is always ready to make new friends. If you haven't had the chance to talk to her, take the time to and she might just invite you to pray for longer weekends with her!

The Four-Year-Old Senior

Students probably have heard this Crusader get special recognition on February 28—or February 29. That is because Anthony’s birthday is February 29, but unfortunately it only comes around every four years. So by that logic, Anthony is 4 ½ years old. He is a graduate of St. Paul Lutheran school and attends Hanover Lutheran Church, where his dad is the pastor. He is also a proud member of Saxony’s bowling team. Along with his parents, Anthony lives in Jackson with his two cats, Shadow and Dr. Love. His sister, Victoria, graduated from Saxony in 2016. Here are some more things people should know about Anthony!

Q: What is one of your special talents?
A: I'm a good dancer.
Q: What is your favorite TV show?
A: Rick and Morty
Q: What is your favorite soda?
A: Surge
Q: Who is your favorite superhero?
A: It's a tie between Martian Manhunter and Deadpool.
Q: What piece do you always choose in Monopoly?
A: The hat
Q: What is your favorite after-school snack?
A: RX protein bars.
Q: Any fun summer plans?
A: I'm going to England, Italy, Switzerland and France with my family.
Q: Are you ready to be a senior next year?
A: Yes and no.
Q: What's your best advice for students at Saxony?
A: Back up your tablets!
Q: Are you excited to have your younger sister Cammy coming to Saxony next year?
A: Yeah... just be ready.
Q: What do you do on weekends?
A: Pray that it lasts longer.
Q: What is your favorite TV show?
A: Rick and Morty
Q: If you were on a deserted island, what three things would you take with you?
A: A knife, matches, and my girlfriend.
Q: What is your favorite soda?
A: Surge
Q: Who is your favorite superhero?
A: It's a tie between Martian Manhunter and Deadpool.
Q: What piece do you always choose in Monopoly?
A: The hat
Q: Any shout-outs?
A: Adam, Sam, Robert, Max, Jade, Dan and Justin.
Advice

Nathan and Wil's Do's and Don'ts

Less than a month is left until we seniors end our school year! Since this is the last Wil and Nathan advice of the year (or ever for The Crusader), we want to leave the Saxony population with the best advice possible. The advice below is the overall greatest advice that we can leave behind for our readers for the remainder of their high school careers.

- Don't be a blind follower. The world (and school) is filled with followers who don't think for themselves, and such followers don't make a difference.
- Be friendly to everyone. If one takes just one thing away from his/her education from Saxony, let it be that everyone is a brother or sister in Christ.
- If a person would like to join something or participate in a club or activity, he/she should do it without caring what other people think.
- Get involved in everything. We didn't believe this as underclassmen, but we now wish we would not have missed out on some great memories.
- GPA during freshman and sophomore year will have a huge effect on GPA during senior year. Take grades seriously all the way.
- People will change and relationships will be lost, but don't worry because new friends and relationships will grow in the years to come.
- Strengths and weaknesses will be discovered in high school, so don't be afraid to embrace them.
- Don't sweat the small stuff. The issues experienced now will most likely not matter to you when you get to be our age.

Finally, don't be afraid to stick out in a crowd. God made everyone unique. Our Savior, Jesus—whom we're called to emulate—stood apart from the world more than anyone in history. If one stands apart from the status quo, trust us, one will never be alone.

Out with the Old and In With The New

As the weather becomes warmer and students daydream of summer, the school year quickly comes to a close. With May quickly approaching, The Crusader staff faces some difficult decisions: who will be chosen to write on the staff next school year? And how will the remaining staff members possibly cope with the loss of the graduating seniors?! (Kidding! Just try not to miss us TOO much!) For at least one of those questions, we have answers!

We will also be saying goodbye to five departing seniors this year: Wil Walker, Nathan Ruark, Sofia Voss, Jade Samanta and Nicolette Baker. Throughout their time on the staff, they have covered everything from victories on the basketball court to amazing drama performances. They have given their insight and advice on a variety of topics and kept us captivated with their writing. Good luck on all your future endeavors, seniors!

Signing off,

Jade Samanta, Wil Walker, Sofia Voss, Nathan Ruark and Nicolette Baker
Jesus Saves from Death, the Devil, and... Spring Fever?

Feeling dizzy with warm weather excitement? Spring air finally taking a lazy toll on your motivation? Well, as much as anyone with a love for summer wishes school could just be over, there is still a few more weeks to go! Even though it may be hard to stay focused on your Geography homework while the sun is out and the windows are open, we all can push through! No one wants to quit the race early and walk away before he/she has been adorned with that winning medal.

What is the point of working so hard throughout the school year, only to stop early and lose all the progress achieved? 2 Timothy 4:7 states: “I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith.” This motivational Bible verse is an amazing verse to help us stay focused in any circumstance. God is instructing us to conquer the devil, evil influences, and yes, even that nagging Geography homework. When we feel as though we have nothing left to give, He will fight for us. He will give us the strength needed to thwart the devil’s plans and to ace that final.

So many positive things, such as good GPA’s, opportunities for scholarships, and college acceptance, can result from this last stretch of hard work put into a person’s grades. We Saxony students need to keep the daunting spring air from distracting us from finishing the 2017-18 school year strong. Ask God for strength and enjoy the rest of the year!
